Introduction to the AST

This booklet is intended for students who will be taking the ACT Scaling Test (AST). It explains rules and requirements, what the test is like, how it is developed, and what can be done as preparation.

The test aims to measure a range of general skills that are seen to be relevant to success in a variety of school subjects and to further education, especially tertiary studies.

The test consists of:

- Short Response Test
- Multiple Choice Test
- Writing Task.

On the Board of Senior Secondary Studies website (http://www.bsss.act.edu.au/information_for_students/act_scaling_test) you will find examples of some of the kinds of questions that appear in the AST, together with an explanation of the kind of reasoning that could be involved in determining the correct or best answer to each question.

Because the AST measures skills of a general nature, the material in the AST looks different from year to year, even though a similar set of skills is measured each year.

Test Centre Conditions

Prior to the Test

- When instructed to enter the test centre, you should find your allocated seat without delay and should not leave that seat except with the permission of, or at the direction of, the Supervisor-in-Charge or a Supervisor.

- Do not touch any material on your desk until told to do so.
- You are required to have a current photographic identity card, issued by your college. In some circumstances other photographic identity cards can be used. If in doubt check with your college AST coordinator. You should place your ID card on your desk near the label.
- If you have a watch, you will also be asked to place that on the front corner of your desk.
- Check details printed on test booklets, answer sheets or booklets carefully and raise your hand if there are any errors.
- You will be provided with some draft/working paper for each test, which you can use if you wish. More paper is available from the supervisors if required.
- You will be given 10 minutes reading time for the Short Response paper and the Multiple-Choice paper. No reading time is available for the Writing Task. During this time you should check that the test papers are printed correctly (i.e. no missing pages, text and diagrams are legible etc.)
- You must not write, or mark anything, until given the instruction to commence work.

Late arrival, early departure or temporary absence from the test venue

- You will not be admitted to the test room later than 30 minutes after the start of the test (40 minutes after the start of reading time for the Short Response and Multiple Choice tests). Students arriving within this time may commence the test but will not be granted extra time.
- If you have a very good reason for being late, for which independent evidence exists, (e.g. car accident) discuss this with the AST Coordinator before starting the test as it may be more appropriate to apply for the Second Sitting - permission for which is not granted automatically but must be applied for, with evidence.

Note well

Copying/Cheating

You are not allowed to cheat or attempt to cheat during any session of the test. For the purposes of the test, cheating is defined as any action intended to assist you to gain an unfair advantage over other candidates or otherwise to defeat the purpose of the test.

Such actions include, but are not limited to:

- Copying from another candidate
- Gaining prior access to the content of the test
- Impersonation
- Altering response sheets or response booklets
- Bringing documents into the test centre, such as a prepared essay
- Bringing unauthorised equipment into the test centre (e.g. mobile phone, Smart Watch)
- Communicating with another candidate, verbally, in writing, electronically, by tapping or by any other method
- Giving false information
- Writing before commencement time or after finishing time.

During any session of the test, you should cover your answers as much as possible, to prevent other candidates from copying/cheating. If you finish the Multiple-Choice paper early, you should turn your answer sheet face down.

Minimum Requirements

An AST result will be awarded only if you make a serious attempt at all three components of the test, including:

- Making an original and substantial response to the stimulus material, of a minimum of 200 words in the Writing Task
- Making an original and substantial response to questions worth at least half of the total allocated marks in the Short Response Test
- responding to questions without any apparent systematic selection or strings of choice and answering at least half of the questions in the Multiple Choice Test.

Illness before or during the test – Second Sitting Application Requirements

- The Second Sitting Application Form consists of Part 1 (The Application) and Part 2 (A Confidential Medical Report) – BOTH parts are REQUIRED. Part 1/Pg. 2 MUST be filled in by THE APPLICANT
- In all cases of illness, before or during the test, the Confidential Medical Report must be obtained within 24 hours.
- A statement that “student x has a medical condition”, or a ticked box on a certificate, is NOT sufficient
- Medical Reports MUST include the date of the consultation
- Supervisors are not permitted to recommend or administer medication of any kind unless permission has been granted prior to the test. If medication may be required it is recommended that an application is made for Special Provisions so this can occur.

Note
well

Illness before the test

If you are unable to attend any session of the AST (first sitting) due to illness, you must notify the college, seek medical attention and get Part 2 of the Second Sitting Application (Confidential Medical Report) filled in by the Doctor, within 24 hours of that test session, except in exceptional circumstances. You should then apply for approval to sit the second sitting for the paper(s) concerned.

If you are genuinely ill prior to the commencement of any test do not attempt the test. Please consult the AST Coordinator or the Supervisor-in-Charge if you are unsure.

N.B: If you are advised not to sit the paper but choose to do so you will NOT be eligible for the Second Sitting or any form of compensation in the marking of that test.

If you are too ill to attempt the test, you should:

- Not attempt the paper
- Seek medical attention and get Part 2 of the Second Sitting Application (Confidential Medical Report) filled in within 24 hours. Medical Reports obtained outside the 24 hours will not usually be accepted
- Apply for approval to attend the Second Sitting for the paper/s concerned – contact your college AST Coordinator.

You will be permitted to sit the Second Sitting provided an application is made by the due date with appropriate documentation. A signed Incident Report will be completed by the Supervisor-in-Charge where relevant. Each Application will be assessed on its merit.

Temporary illness during any sitting of the AST

If you become ill in any of the sessions, and the illness is of a temporary nature such that a short, supervised absence from the test room may result in a cure, then such absence should be permitted, but there will be no extension of time granted. Supervisors-in-Charge and Supervisors are advised not to recommend or administer medication of any kind. You may return to the test, provided that supervision has occurred throughout the period of absence. Any such absences will be noted by a supervisor in an Incident Report, with a brief written explanation. There will be no extension of time granted.

Illness during any sitting of the AST

If you become ill during any AST paper at the first or second sitting:

- you must inform the Supervisor-in-Charge at the test centre you are ill, whether the paper is completed or not, before leaving the test centre
- you will be allowed to leave the test centre if necessary
- an Incident Report will be submitted by the Supervisor-in-Charge
- you must seek medical attention, and get Part 2 of the Second Sitting Application (Confidential Medical Report) filled in within 24 hours and this must be received by the school AST Coordinator by the Friday of AST test week
- Part 1 – The Second Sitting Application – is also required
- if you wish to apply for the Second Sitting you must apply by the due date.

Illness during the Multiple Choice and Short Response Tests

- if you become ill during a Short Response or Multiple-Choice paper you will be permitted to sit any of the remaining tests at the first sitting
- you will NOT be allowed to sit an uncompleted paper at the Second Sitting, no matter how brief the contact has been
- if you suddenly become ill after starting the test inform the Supervisor-in-Charge before leaving the test centre. Do not attempt any subsequent tests at this sitting if you are still unwell. You will need to obtain the appropriate medical report and submit by the due date.

Illness during the Writing Task (First Sitting)

- if you become ill and are unable to complete the Writing Task, or feel your performance was seriously affected by sudden illness, you should apply for the Writing Task component of the Second Sitting. You will need to obtain the appropriate medical report and submit by the due date.

Misadventure before any session of the AST

Misadventure is defined as an unforeseen mishap, calamity or disaster. If an event, such as a death in the family, prevents you from attending a sitting of the AST, you or your representative must notify the school immediately. Official, independent documentation of such an event must be provided to the school as soon as possible and must accompany any request for permission to sit the second sitting or for special treatment. (e.g. Car accident on way to the test – signed and dated statement from NRMA person or police would be acceptable.)

Medical Certificates for Students applying for the Second Sitting

If you miss one or more of the components of the first sitting of the AST because of illness, or feel your performance was seriously affected by illness arising during the test, you must get the appropriate medical report within 24 hours of the test. This, and the Second Sitting Application must be delivered to the college concerned by Friday of the week the AST is held. Speak to your school AST Coordinator.

Special Case Consideration

1. The AST is a test of reading, writing and thinking. Extra time has been built into some of the tests, in particular to the Writing Task, where there is 30 minutes extra time already provided
2. Students who have a disability, impairment or medical condition, who wish to apply for Special Case Consideration, must discuss this with the college AST Coordinator
3. Any application for Special Case Consideration must be accompanied by current, relevant documentary evidence
4. While decisions for each application are based on the individual situation and current supporting documentation provided, every effort is made to be consistent across all schools
5. In some situations, because of the different requirements for the AST, Special Case Consideration may not be granted for the AST, even though consideration may have been granted by the school for school-based assessment
6. In some situations, different consideration from that applied for will be granted
7. All decisions regarding eligibility for Special Case Consideration in the AST are the sole responsibility of the Board of Senior Secondary Studies and because of the nature of the AST some support given for college assessment may not be relevant/ granted for the AST
8. Late applications for Special Case Provisions which would necessitate approval to sit the AST at the Second Sitting are unlikely to be approved where the disability, impairment or medical condition is a long term one and the application could reasonably have been submitted by the due date in March. (See below)

Second Sitting

The second sitting is provided for students who are unable to attend the first sitting, due to illness, misadventure or other exceptional circumstances.

Approval to attend the second sitting will not be granted automatically and only relevant Officers in the Office of the Board of Senior Secondary Studies can approve eligibility.

You must discuss an application for the Second Sitting with your AST Co-ordinator. If you know in advance that you will not be able to attend the main sitting of the AST you MUST get approval for the Second Sitting in advance.

Do NOT assume approval will be granted, under any circumstances.

Introduction to the AST

I The Nature of the ACT Scaling Test

The AST contains three papers — a 120 minute Short Response Test, a 135 minute Multiple-Choice Test containing 80 questions, and a 150 minute Writing Task: (See also Students from a Linguistically Diverse Background)

(i) The Short Response Test

The Short Response Test is included so that a wider range of intellectual skills and processes can be assessed. The questions are designed to measure the skills and processes of comprehension and interpretation, analysis and synthesis of information, critical thinking, decision-making, problem solving and evaluation and response. They provide opportunities for you to demonstrate lateral and creative thinking and visual literacy.

10 Minutes of reading time is allowed – it is strongly recommended you use this time productively

The time allowed for the test will be 120 minutes. The total mark for the paper will be out of 50. This means you have over 2 minutes per mark. The number of questions and the marks allocated to each question in the test will vary, but the mark indicated in brackets for each question will indicate the proportion of time appropriate to each question.

The written answers range from a word, to a phrase, to a sentence or a number of sentences. The space provided for answers also gives an indication of the length of response expected.

Although the answers are written, this is not a test of your control of language. It is a test of the substance and quality of your reasoning and thinking, and of your ability to explain and justify points of view with precision. Answers should be written clearly and legibly so as to communicate understanding as well as possible. Spelling and punctuation will not be assessed in this paper. Answers can be given in dot points, if appropriate.

Note: You must make an original and substantial response to questions worth at least half of the total allocated marks in the Short Response Test

(ii) The AST Multiple-Choice Test

10 Minutes of reading time is allowed – it is strongly recommended you use this time productively

The multiple-choice questions are grouped into sets or units, each based on a piece of stimulus material. The stimulus material may be a prose passage, a graph, a table containing words or numbers, a poem, a picture or a map, or a combination of these. Any specific information required to answer the questions is contained in the stimulus material or in the questions that follow.

The material is drawn from the areas of humanities, social sciences, sciences and mathematics, but is not aimed at subject specialists and is designed to be accessible to all senior students.

The questions are intended to test general reasoning skills, including ability to comprehend information, make plausible inferences, apply deductive reasoning, analyse data, translate information from one form to another, make evaluations, apply quantitative skills and solve problems.

Note: You must answer at least half of the questions and respond without any apparent systematic selection or strings of choice.

(iii) The AST Writing Task

The AST Writing Task includes stimulus material that may include text, cartoons, charts or graphs, which present various views of a particular issue. Your task is to write a persuasive piece of about 600 words in response.

The paper itself gives directions about how you should undertake this task. You can react to all or some of the material presented, and you can agree or disagree with any of it. You should aim to present a clear argument and must not write anything frivolous or objectionable. You should give your response a clear title to assist you in being specific about the aim and direction of the piece of writing you produce.

You have two and a half hours and this should allow you plenty of time for planning, drafting, re-drafting and editing your work. You should budget at least 30 minutes for the final written version of your response. It is expected that you complete the final version in the time given. There is no specified reading time in the Writing Task.

Note:

You must make an original and substantial response to the stimulus, of a minimum of 200 words. Do not cut and paste material from the stimulus. Marks will be lost for significantly exceeding 600 words.

Students from a Linguistically Diverse Background (LD)

Students who meet the BSSS' definition as from a Linguistically Diverse Background (LD) can access extra time. All students who are applying for LD status will need to complete an application for LD status in addition to the Application to sit the AST. This form is to be verified by the principal prior to submitting to the BSSS by Friday 25 March 2021.

If you have been approved for LD status you will be seated with other LD students in a separate area and will be permitted to have extra time for each test. All students will sit the same papers.

Short Response Test

Standard time of two hours with an extra 20 minutes available to complete the paper. The number of questions to be answered will be stated clearly on the front page and you should answer all questions in the booklet.

Multiple Choice Test

Standard time of two hours and 15 minutes with an extra 25 minutes available to answer 80 questions.

Writing Task

Standard time of 2 hours and 30 minutes with an extra 25 minutes available. Your Writing Task will be marked using the same criteria as for other students however all LD papers will be marked as one group.

All students must fulfill the Minimum Requirements (Pg. 8) of all three components of the test whether identified as from a Linguistically Diverse Background or not.

II How the AST is developed

Material for the ACT Scaling Test is developed by staff from the Australian Council for Educational Research who have experience in both test construction and teaching at the secondary level. This material, including all suggested questions, answers and alternatives is subjected to prolonged panel discussions.

As a result of this panelling process, ambiguities, unwarranted assumptions, logical flaws and subjective notions are removed.

After panel discussions, the multiple-choice unit is edited and prepared for preliminary or trial testing. To produce a final test of 80 multiple choice questions, approximately three times that number are trial tested with Year 12 students. From the trials, data are obtained on the difficulty level and statistical performance of each question. These data provide a guide to the selection of the final 80 questions for the test. The final set of multiple-choice questions is selected by ACER staff in consultation with representatives of the Office of the Board of Senior Secondary Studies. The outcome is a test of 80 questions with suitable statistical properties covering an appropriate range of skills.

For the Short Response Test preliminary units are prepared and edited after panel discussion. The final set of questions is selected after consultation with representatives from the Office of the Board of Senior Secondary Studies.

Note: Despite repeated quality control loops in the production of the test material, error free material can never be absolutely guaranteed.

III How AST Scores are used

Each candidate receives a total AST score calculated from the Short Response Test, Multiple-Choice Test (verbal and quantitative components) and the Writing Task results. Candidates' total AST scores are used by the BSSS in the process of scaling students' course scores as supplied by the colleges. The term 'scaling' refers to the adjustment of candidates' scores to obtain scores that are comparable across different courses and across different colleges, which can thus be incorporated into a single Tertiary Entrance Score. The scaling process does not alter the ranking of students as supplied by the colleges. For example, if you are seventh in the college's ranking in a course, your scaled score will be seventh when all of the scores awarded to students in that course are rescaled.

In the ACT, AST scores are standardised before they are used for scaling. This ensures that the system distribution of scores is similar each year, regardless of whether raw test marks are higher or lower than in previous years.

If you are intending to obtain an Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR) you must sit the AST. If you are ever likely to apply to undertake tertiary education, your Australian Tertiary Admission Rank will be considered, amongst other information, by admissions officers at universities.

IV Preparation and method of answering questions - Short Response Test

(i) Preparation

For this test a good general knowledge and opinions on current issues could be helpful. Most of the skills required should be integral to Year 11 and 12 courses. Preparation could include reading newspapers, listening to news and current affairs programs with the view to interpreting what has been said, expressing your own opinions and justifying them in some manner, by logic or examples. Reading and interpreting diagrams, graphs and tables published in a variety of contexts could also be of use.

Most of the skills and processes required for the Short Response Test should be familiar in that they are the types of skills and processes that could be expected to be part of most lessons.

The major elements of the Short Response Test can be represented by the following types of questions:

Comprehending and interpreting – for example:

- What view of ... is presented in this material?
- What is suggested/ implied about ... in this material?
- Explain how/why ... happens.

Dealing with information – for example:

- What does this data/information reveal/mean?
- Identify information/data/a variable/evidence of type.
- Apply information/data of type
- How could this be presented in another way/summarised?
- Classify on the basis of Thinking critically – for example:

- What view is presented here?
- How is this view presented?
- How is this view supported?
- How strong or convincing is this view?

Drawing conclusions – for example:

- What is the relationship between ... and ...?
- What is a reasonable conclusion/hypothesis/prediction to draw from this data?
- Evaluate this evidence/information/claim/experimental design.
- In order to draw this conclusion, what additional information is needed?
- Justify/Counter the claim that ...
- What is the line of reasoning?
- What is the flaw/assumption in the line of reasoning?

Solving Problems – for example:

- How does/should this work?
- What is it meant to do?
- What is the problem?
- What is a suitable/optimal solution/answer/strategy/improvement/design?
- What would happen if ...?
- Evaluate these potential solutions.
- Can this be solved with what is available?
- What else do you need to know/do/discover to solve the problem?

Evaluating and responding – for example:

- What is presented in this material?
- What is the purpose of this material?
- How is it presented?
- What impressions do you have of this?
- How do you think and feel about this?
- What is your view of this?
- How would you explain and justify your view?

(ii) Method of answering questions

Answers will be written in the test booklet, in the spaces provided. You do not have to fill the entire space, but the space and the marks available together indicate the approximate required length of your answer. Answers can be in point form unless otherwise directed. Answers should be in pen or biro.

It is worth noting that each question does not necessarily have a unique answer. There may be alternative responses that are of an equally high standard.

V Preparation and method of answering questions - Multiple Choice

(i) Preparation

The skills that the AST measures are believed to develop slowly as a result of a variety of experiences, of which formal schooling is one important element. Your best preparation is to read widely and to think critically.

The sample questions on the BSSS website have been provided only to give you some idea of the kinds of questions set in the AST. By working through these questions you will become familiar with some of the types of material that may be presented, and gain experience in dealing with such material in order to arrive at the answers.

Practice on objective test questions, such as those provided by your college and on the BSSS website, can do only a little to improve your score. In addition, available evidence suggests that specific coaching (as distinct from practice) for tests such as the AST, has little effect because these tests focus on skills of a general nature, developed over a long period of time, and are not readily improved by a quick coaching course.

(ii) Method of answering questions

Detailed information regarding the method of recording answers to the multiple-choice questions in the AST test will be printed on the question booklet. You will be required to mark your answers on a special answer sheet that is provided separately from the AST question booklet.

The answer sheets are marked by an optical scanning machine. This machine 'senses' marks made on the answer sheet by a standard 2B pencil and converts this information into a form that can be processed by a computer.

At least two 2B pencils and an eraser will be needed.

The pencil must make a dark mark but should not smudge.

DO NOT TO USE A BALL-POINT OR INK PEN ON THE MULTIPLE CHOICE ANSWER SHEET

1 [A] [B] [C] [D]

You must carefully read each question and its suggested answers. Having decided which answer is correct or best, you should indicate your choice on the Multiple-Choice Answer Sheet. Instructions for marking responses are also printed on the Multiple-Choice Answer Sheet.

Only one answer per question should be marked. If the scanner reads more than one response for a question, it will mark it as "incorrect".

If it is necessary to change an answer, you should completely erase the first mark before another mark is inserted. It is desirable to avoid having to make erasures, for example, by not answering too hastily.

It is necessary to take care that the mark indicating the correct answer does not go outside the area bounded by the brackets and there are no stray marks or smudges on the answer sheet as this could invalidate the answer.

VI Preparation and method of answering questions - Writing Task

(i) Preparation

During your secondary education, you will have had a number of opportunities to prepare essays in various subjects. The task you are set as a candidate in the AST Writing Task gives you plenty of scope to demonstrate the skills you have acquired. You should have an idea of what will be assessed and see the task as an opportunity to meet these challenges in creative and powerful ways. The task will demand only one piece of writing and in one mode—a sustained, persuasive piece of writing in response to the stimulus material. The examiners will be looking at the quality and organisation of your ideas.

Criteria for the Writing Task

The extent to which the following are demonstrated:

- Thought and Content
- Structure and Organisation
- Expression, Style and Mechanics

Examiners will be looking for the following in your Writing Task response:

- a) Your choice of a major issue related to the material presented.
 - Have you been able to focus clearly on an issue?
 - Have you been able to make the importance of the issue clear?
 - Have you been able to show the relationship of your argument to the material presented?
- b) The coherence of your argument.
 - Does your argument have clear structure?
 - Do the parts of your argument develop from one another and hang together as a whole?
- c) The quality of your evidence or supporting arguments.
 - Have you been able to organise and use evidence or arguments to support your conclusion?
 - Is there a clear relationship between the discussion and the view presented?
 - Have you regurgitated stimulus material? This will result in poor scores
- d) Your control of language and form, including clarity, precision and appropriateness for the target 'audience'.
 - Have you been able to express your ideas clearly and directly?
 - Have you made a persuasive argument which will have an impact on the reader?
 - Have you communicated effectively with your audience?
 - Have you edited effectively and polished your writing?

(ii) Method of answering questions

You will be provided with a booklet of plain ruled paper in which to write your final response. Rough paper will be provided on which to do a draft. The final version should be written in pen, not pencil. You should allow sufficient time to draft and write the final version of your response.
