BSSS Academic Integrity – Policy

Definition: Academic Integrity

The principle that students' work is genuine and original, completed only with the assistance allowed according to the rules, policies and guidelines. In particular, the words, ideas, scholarship and intellectual property of others used in the work must be appropriately acknowledged.

Work includes not only written material, but in addition any oral, numerical, audio, visual or other material submitted for assessment.

Breaches of academic integrity include plagiarism, collusion, the fabrication or deliberate misrepresentation of data, and failure to adhere to the rules regarding examinations in such a way as to gain unfair academic advantage¹⁰.

Definition: Plagiarism – from the BSSS Policy and Procedures Manual 4.3.12

Plagiarism is the copying, paraphrasing or summarising of work, in any form, without acknowledgement of sources, and presenting this as a student's own work.

Purpose

The purpose of a plagiarism policy is as follows:

- Students know the satisfaction of producing their own work
- Students take full advantage of the learning process
- Students acknowledge the work of others
- Students understand the ethical rights and responsibilities as authors and creators
- Students are aware of how to use information respectfully, ethically and legally when complying with intellectual academic writing practices (UTS: Library Information Literacy Framework) and all areas of the curriculum

Actively teach about academic integrity

http://www.bsss.act.edu.au/_data/assets/pdf_file/0010/313777/P_and_P_Manual_2018_V6_without_act.pdf

Examples of plagiarism could include, but are not limited to¹¹:

- Submitting all or part of another person's work with or without that person's knowledge
- Using AI generative software to substantially research, plan, structure and/or create the text/ image/ artwork. Submitting all or part of a paper from a source text without proper acknowledgement
- Copying part of another person's work from a source text, supplying proper acknowledgement, but leaving out quotation marks or not using italics
- Submitting materials that paraphrase or summarise another person's work or ideas without appropriate acknowledgement
- Submitting a digital image, sound, design, artwork, artefact, product, photograph or animation, altered or unaltered, without appropriate acknowledgement.

See: smartcopying.com.au

Principles behind the imposition of penalties:

- Any work that is found to be plagiarised will incur a penalty ranging from a written reprimand and warning, through to the cancellation of all assessment results for Years 11 and 12
- Students who unintentionally plagiarise must be given appropriate counselling and guidance so that they do not repeat the offence
- The impact on unit scores of the penalties imposed for serious and
- repeated instances of plagiarism will be managed in accordance with the Board of Senior Secondary Studies policies.

Note that in the tertiary sector, plagiarism is immediately treated as a breach of the code of conduct and may lead to loss of units and/or expulsion.

Consider cultural norms

Plagiarism and Culture¹²

The notion of plagiarism is something we learn in the Western world. In other cultures, however, there are different notions of ownership of work and academic integrity. Some cultures prioritise the collective community rather than individuals within a community. In China, memorisation of work is a form of respect. In some parts of the world, there is no formal concept of plagiarism.

International students may require explicit teaching about academic integrity.

¹¹ Examples of plagiarism adapted from: Stephen Wilhoit, College Teaching 42, Fall 1994, 161-164

¹² http://turnitin.com/en_us/resources/blog/2670-cultural-differences-in-plagiarism

Procedures for dealing with situations involving plagiarism:

- a) Any suspected case of plagiarism must be investigated at the College level
 - b) The principles of natural justice must be applied at all stages in the process. Any student suspected of plagiarising work must be given a fair hearing and the opportunity to provide evidence of authorship
 - c) If there is evidence of plagiarism the student must be interviewed by the teacher and the head of faculty and given the opportunity to explain his/her case before a penalty is determined
 - d) If plagiarism is shown to have occurred, then the teacher, in conjunction with the head of faculty, Principal or Delegate as appropriate, should determine the penalty, taking into account the principles and the penalty schedule listed
 - e) The student must be advised, in writing, of the penalty and informed that s/he has the right to appeal the penalty under the Breach of Discipline procedures of the Board
 - f) Details of any case of plagiarism must be recorded and the record kept centrally at the College.

Students have the right to appeal

Right of Appeal

Students have the right to appeal against the application and/or the outcomes of the above procedures. Refer to Board Policy on Breaches of Discipline in relation to school-based assessment and Your Rights to Appeal Leaflet.

Power of Words by Antonio Litterio.jpg

Penalties

Any one or more of the following actions could be taken for a breach of discipline in relation to assessment:

- a) Reprimand of the candidate, except in cases where the candidate would have derived benefit from such breaches
- b) The making of alternative arrangements for the assessment (e.g., through a reassessment)
- c) The assessment marked without the material subject to the breach being considered
- d) Imposition of a mark penalty appropriate to the extent of the breach
- e) Cancellation of the result in the particular component of the college assessment concerned
- f) Cancellation of the total college assessment result in the unit/course concerned
- g) Cancellation of all the candidate's results for years 11 and 12 in assessments conducted.

The following is a guide to the penalties to be imposed by colleges. These penalties apply irrespective of the unit/subject/course in which the incident(s) occur.

Categories	Penalties
First incident of breach of discipline	One or more of the following penalties to be imposed subject to the degree of the infringement: (a) to (f)
Subsequent breach(es) of discipline	One of the following penalties to be imposed subject to the degree of the infringement and previous breach(es) of discipline: (b) to (g)

Counselling of students is a key component of the process. After the first incident of a breach of discipline, advice in writing to the student must include a warning about the consequences of subsequent breaches.

Academic Integrity - What It Means to You as A Teacher

Students must be prepared to submit work that is a true reflection of their ability in each subject so that:

- The student can develop an appreciation of their own strengths and weaknesses, can learn effectively and honestly and grow intellectually
- The student can develop knowledge and understanding of their own rights as creators and authors and their responsibility to acknowledge the work of others
- The integrity of the ACT Senior Secondary Certificate, which is based on continuous assessment, can be maintained.

“...most cases of plagiarism result from honest confusion over the standards of academic discourse and proper citation. We might more successfully combat the problem by spending more time in class helping students learn how to avoid it.”¹³

Students should know their own strengths and weaknesses

¹³ Wilhoit, op. cit., 161

College Responsibilities

- Inform students about plagiarism and the appropriate ways of acknowledging sources. Positive advice should be offered about how students can avoid plagiarism
- Students need clear instruction about the appropriate use of AI in academic endeavour
- Inform students that any incident of plagiarism will be treated as a serious breach of discipline in assessment
- Inform students of the penalties that may be imposed and the processes to be followed, (including the Appeal process), if an incident of plagiarism is indicated
- Institute practices that will assist in the verification of student work that is completed outside the classroom
- Institute a process whereby any work submitted includes a statement from the student, on each assessment item completed outside class time, to the effect that work presented is his or her own
- Ensure that all new students have advice on how to avoid plagiarism well before their first assessment item is due
- Develop proper recording mechanisms for incidents of plagiarism
- Give advice to teachers on the following aspects, which will complement the Board Policy on Plagiarism:
 - how to support students so that they can demonstrate academic integrity (including teaching referencing skills and being aware of cultural differences)
 - how to detect plagiarism (including the possible use of plagiarism detection software) and to determine reasonable grounds on which accusations of plagiarism might be made (remembering the principle of innocent until proven guilty)
 - how to discuss the issue with students, for example by giving them the opportunity to provide evidence of authorship
 - issues involved in determining appropriate penalties (according to the seriousness of the offence and whether the student has offended previously).

Give positive advice to students

Positive Actions for Teachers

Ensure all students understand the principles of academic integrity.

Be aware of why students might plagiarise: is there a gap in their understanding of referencing, note taking, or other research skills?

Ensure all students understand all aspects of both the school and BSSS plagiarism policy.

Employ strategies that will make responses to assessment tasks difficult to plagiarise (see Strategies below).

Try to detect plagiarism in the interests of equity for all students.

Require a declaration stating that the student understands plagiarism issues and have created and provided their own work. This might be a printed declaration form or an online declaration.

Equity is important for all students

Strategies

1. Setting Assignment Tasks

- Explicitly promote the satisfaction of students creating their own work
- Think about the skills you would like the students to demonstrate in the assignment (usually as specified in the unit goals of your course). Be sure these are reflected in the task you set and in the instructions you give the students
- Consider the vulnerabilities of tasks to AI based cheating and how conditions might be varied to mitigate it
- Set original assignments that challenge students to solve a problem or argue a case. Such assignments require evaluative and analytical skills, higher order thinking and reflection. See also¹⁴:
 - https://www.hes.edu.au/sites/default/files/uploaded-content/website-content/Images/Documents/2018-HEQN-Conference/bretag_harper.pdf
 - <http://www.celt.iastate.edu/teaching-resources/effective-practice/revised-blooms-taxonomy/> which sets out the revised Bloom's Taxonomy of Educational Objectives, a list of the different types of thinking
 - Wiggins, Grant and McTighe, Jay 2005, Understanding by Design, expanded 2nd edn, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, Alexandria, USA
- Base your question(s) on a statement or source that students need to respond to, refute or discuss, with supporting evidence from their own extra research. This gives your question a unique slant that makes it difficult to merely regurgitate other people's ideas without analysis.
- Always vary essay/oral/creative topics or write new ones to discourage students from re-using older siblings' or friends' work
- Set an in-class task based on research notes (including quotations and bibliography) that students have prepared beforehand. The question itself is unknown, but students have received guidelines on which areas to research and on the general nature of the task
- Include criteria in the marking scheme for the research and referencing components. This might include: the student's plan or outline, their notes and summaries, the draft, the bibliography/reference list. Set due dates for these to be submitted
- Consider self or peer assessment as part of the assessment process
- Insist on certain minimum requirements from a variety of information sources or specify some sources that they must use. Insist that not all sources are Internet based
- Ask for an annotated bibliography in which students need to include a descriptive or evaluative comment about each source they have used.

Example of annotated bibliography:

Fleming, Hugh (ed.) 1998, User education in academic libraries, The Library Association, London.

A series of essays on various aspects of user education, mainly at tertiary level. Topics include defining the user, different learning styles, how to evaluate programmes.

2. Teaching the skills required by the assignment

- Discuss the assignment at length with the class – in particular what you expect them to gain from the task. Do not assume that students have already acquired the necessary skills to complete the task without guidance. Collaborate with your teacher-librarian(s) to develop student research skills and strategies effectively to reduce plagiarism
- Teach students how to approach a research task in collaboration with your teacher librarian. An example framework to use: The Guided Inquiry Framework:
<https://guidedinquirydesign.com/gid/>
- Students need in particular to be shown how to evaluate the usefulness, suitability, relevance and accuracy of material they have found. For some guidelines for evaluating websites, see Shrock's 5 Ws¹⁵ <http://www.schrockguide.net/uploads/3/9/2/2/392267/5ws.pdf>
- Show students what to do with the information they locate. Demonstrate and practice in class the skills of notetaking. Stress the importance of accurate bibliographic details, including page numbers, so they can later cite and quote accurately from their notes. Your teacher librarian can provide 'just in time' lessons as part of your program of learning in these areas as well
- Check that students understand the mechanics of paraphrasing, citing, quoting, etc. by creating a mini assignment where students are given a limited number of resources and are asked to demonstrate these skills as a practice exercise (formative assessment)
- Be sure students are clear as to where and how they should cite their sources, including AI generated sources
- Educate your students about plagiarism. Show examples of correct and incorrect citing
- When you hand back material, include a written analysis and encourage/ require students to reflect on the process they have been through, to identify skills they have learnt, areas of weakness or uncertainty, what they enjoyed or found difficult, what generic transferable skills they have acquired.
